Most of the women spin and make their every-day clothing, doing their own coloring. They are quite proud of the quantity of cloth manufactured in their establishment every year. All work hard and take very little outdoor exercise. Parties and the theater are the favorite amusements. At the theatre Brigham and one or two of the favorite wives sit together in the "King's box," but the remainder of the women and children sit together in what is called "Brigham's corral;" this is in the parquette, about the centre of the arena. The Prophet goes down about once or twice during the evening to the corral, and chats for a few moments with one or another, but in a short time he can be seen beside his "dear Amelia" again.

Description of the National Cemetery-The Dedication to take place on Septem-

From the report of Colonel W. H. Blair Gov. Curtin to inspect the condition of the graves of Pennsylvania soldiers buried in the National Cemetery at An-tietam, we condense the following:

The inclosure is not a perfect square, although the four walls are nearly the same length (700 feet), inclosing an area quarter of a mile from the cemetery. They are taken out in large blocks, some of them eight feet in length. When dressed, they present a smooth and beautiful surface. The granite for the capping, or cap-stones of the wall, is obtained from a quarry near Keadsville, and is brought to the ground ready dressed in beautiful block varying from five to ten feet in length. These capstones are two feet in breadth, eight stones are two feet in breadth, eight inches in thickness, and bevelled one

After the estimate of the entire cost had been made, the amount was levied on each State in proportion to the number of its dead buried on the field, and the appropriations asked for. Thus far the work has been prosecuted with $10,000. About $25,000 has thus far been appropriated, only $12,000 of which has as yet been expended.

As soon as the wall and grading are completed the work of removing the dead will be begun. There exists a re-cord of all that could be identified at the time of the burial. Perhaps one kalf of the graves are marked with the name company and regiment of the dead soldier; or still larger number with the regi-ment alone, and nearly all with the State to which the regiment belonged.

The location of the cemetery is the best that could possibly have been se-lected. It overlooks the battlefield, and many of the most important points, around which the battle raged most fiercely, are in full view. In the upper part of the inclosure is a large rock, on which Gen. Lee stood for some time and watched the progress of the battle, The internal arrangement of affairs at the harem is very similar to that of a young ladies boarding school. And now we have developments of a wholesale slaughter of infants, in Law casions. Gentiles with whom the saints are on good terms, are well received and kindly entertained at their parties, and all join in giving themselves up to the influences of mirth and festivity. Dancing is not only a faverite amusement—it is more; it is cultivated to such an extent that it becomes a passion.

Brigham's women, though better clothed than formedy, still work very hard. They are infatuated with their religion, and devoted to their husband. If they cannot obtain his love, they content themselves with his kindness, and endeavor to think themselves happy. As religion is their only object. If it does not elevate their minds, it deadens their susceptibilities, and, as they are not permitted to be women, they try to convince themselves that it is God's will they should be slaves.

Copies and repetitions of great works are common, but it is of rare occurrence (I suspect) to find two unfinished paintings by the same master, both finished up to the the same master, both finished up to the same point. Yet such seems to be the case here. I own a photograph exactly corresponding to "J. E. B.'s" description. On the left are our Commissioners, Jay, Adams, Laurens, and Benjamin Franklin, and their secretary, Temple Franklin. The right, where the other parties to the conference should be, is blank. This photograph was recently given me by the son of an English nobleman, who informed me that the original picture belonged to his father, and nal picture belonged to his father, and had been purchased by him from West's heirs. Ice as a Medicine. Marvellous results have lately been noted from the use of ice applied to the spinal nerves. Its frequent application in some serious cases of apoplexy has relieved the patient. It is applied to the lumbar plexus of the nerves over the spine, alternated with hot water to the feet. A case of undoubted hydrophobia has been cured by following that treatment. The patient was bound to the bed, and a thorough wet cupping from the head down the whole length of the spine, followed with ice applications for two or three days uninterruptedly. Pulse of nearly half a million square feet. The stones for the wall are quarried about a quarter of a mile from the cemetery. was the result. In the French hospitals, the ice treatment in cases of nervous debility, paralysis of the moter nerves, prolapsus uteri, convulsions from teething, and perpetual convulsions, has been successful without a drop of medicine. The great secret of the mode of treatment consists in using the ice long enough to get its tonic effect only, which is a nice point, and requires great care from the medical attendant, as short ap plications of ice are powerfully neuro tonic, while its too lengthy application debilitates the patient.

The Actigios Philosophical Journal says of it: "The author has given, in a vein of thought fervid and glowing as his own native clime, one of the finest analyses of Spiritualism and its blessings ever uttered to the world. He preves it to be a scientific and philosophic religion, and explains it as clearly a skepte must only wonder that he has not before investigated and accepted teachings so locteal. He shows that it has existed from the besimning of time. He regards the Bible as a history of Spiritualism: showing that all people have had their mered books, from whence they drew inspiration, and an overvoling Power whom they were ship by some name: and that spirits have ever communed with mortals. His language is beautiful; his reasoning sound. He quotes freely from the scientific minds of the age. His book hears evidence of being the production of a cultured mind. He thus speaks in a candid spirit to all striving for truth." &c.

Where faith has faded under the smilght of science, it plants philosophy agon which hope and happiness may live and grow integ story; and to thousands of the depressed and oppressed people of the unfortunate South, it will carry comfort and consolation, and wreathe their lives with a new and higher charm than ever they possessed before.
